IMPORTANT HIV/AIDS INFORMATION FOR MARRIAGE LICENSE APPLICANTS

If you are getting married you need to think about infections that can be spread by sex including infection with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

Many people infected with HIV have no signs or symptoms and don't think they are infected with the virus. Men and women infected with HIV can pass the virus on to their sex or needle-sharing partners.

If a woman who is infected with HIV gets pregnant, she can pass the virus to her baby. But if she knows she has HIV, she can take special medicines during pregnancy that will reduce the chance that her baby will be infected.

HIV DOES NOT DISCRIMINATE.

- Anyone who has ever shared a needle to shoot drugs could be infected.
- Anyone who ever had sex with a man or a woman who shoots drugs could be infected.
- Anyone who has had previous sexual partners could be infected -- the more sexual partners, the greater the chances.
- Anyone who received a blood transfusion or blood products before 1985 could be infected.

PROTECT THE PERSON YOU LOVE -- GET TESTED FOR HIV.

A blood test can tell you if you have HIV. Many couples choose to get tested before marriage, to protect each other and their future children.

Your doctor or health clinic can refer you for HIV counseling and testing. The New York State Health Department's hotline provides information about HIV and AIDS, and can refer you to local free HIV counseling and testing sites Call (toll-free) 1-800-541-AIDS.
